Excerpt: . . . 11 rectorate staff members work closely with personnel from each of the national lab-oratories to promote innovative homeland security solutions. S and T is presently ex-ploring ways for the national laboratories to participate in HSARPA activities. Homeland Security Institute The Homeland Security Act requires that DHS establish a federally funded re-search and development center known as the Homeland Security Institute to assist the Office of the Secretary and the S and T Directorate in addressing important home-land security issues that require scientific, technical and analytical expertise. To start the process, DHS, working with the Armys U. S. Medical Research Acquisition Agency Activity ( USAMRAA ) issued an early notice on September 10 seeking ex-pressions of interest and qualifications, which are due today, October 30. The re-sults of this effort will assist DHS and USAMRAA in developing a major solicitation for this activity. Plans call for the staffing of the office to begin November 1 and the formal solicitation to be issued in December....
