Excerpt: . . . at the morning meetings and Mrs. C. B. Kennedy at those in the afternoon. At night a lantern lecture was given at the War Camp Community Club. The audience was most gratifying, from the point of numbers. On the following day the Trenton Society promoted a Tag Day jointly for local work and for that of the American Red Star. It was a splendid success, workers being numerous and enthusiastic. The best stores in Trenton gave up valuable window space for Red Star poster displays and the mounted police did a big business in the sale of tags. Officer Thiel, in particular, was a clever salesman and his fine bay horse was made a great picture with the aid of Red Star decorations. Trenton has the women who are capable of developing a very big humane work. Lectures were given at Brighton, N. J. ,...
